Lordsburg will have 3 starters graduating. 4 new trained facilitators have been added. She further reported that approximately 92 people have gone through the program with 47 successful businesses started. There is a 50% startup rate and she explained that this is a strong metric with entrepreneur programs. Kitty reported on the NM broadband collect. She explained that 10 destinations in New Mexico applied and received technical assistance grant, including Silver City and Deming.

- X. Receive Economic Development Report – Emily reported that she is wrapping up the Luna County Comp. Plan for March 10th. She asked for everyone’s help with the Synchronist regional data base program so input can be added. If communities can add who they have contacted, she will be able to run reports on the data provided. She further reported that the Imagination Library is now serving 30 counties. Only 3 more counties need to be added before all of New Mexico will be included in the program. Emily explained that the revolving loan fund application that she had asked the board to approve from the EDA had no more money to apply for, so that is no longer an option. She reported that she is now a part of a rural partner network with USDA and other federal departments to help find issues with grant money. She is the liaison for Luna and Hidalgo counties. Emily thanked Priscilla for nominating her for the Dallon Sanders award for economic development, in which she received at the recent NMIDEA conference.

She reported that the audit will be late due to COVID related issues and staffing with the auditor but it should be ready in March. She explained that many communities are having issues with their auditors and that she has reached out to DFA to not punish communities because of this. Priscilla reminded the board that the NM unit Fund has $91 million so to please start public input meetings to explain public comments. She also explains that there shouldn’t be a rush to spend this money but to use all of the infrastructure plan money first and use for future needs. Colonias funds are at 38 million but may be more. Priscilla explained to the board that she wanted to acknowledge the hard work of Kitty and Emily with CoStarters and that it is being recognized at the state level.
